Foreword

Throughout our high school days, we, the class of 1965, have felt a strong attachment to every aspect of our school life. Our friends, our classmates, and our teachers have all meant a great deal to us during the past four years. Our affections for these people and the school which they represent have been unified and highlighted by their enthusiasm and by their unselfish interest in us. In this, the fiftieth edition of the MAROON, we pay tribute to their expression of school spirit.

In the future, we may easily forget the actual events of our four short years at Kingston High School, but we shall always remember this noble tradition of our Alma Mater. For this reason we have chosen School Spirit as the theme of the 1965 MAROON.

Bryan, Best of Luck in your future years at K. H. S. Good luck on your finals Don't ever forget the time we had with Brown last year!

Kathy Wojcik

Bryan, good luck to a fellow De Molay George Christian

Our Alma Mater

We, thy children, Kingston High School,
One in loyalty, ever shall be bound together
By our love for thee.
May thy ideals like the Catskills
Rising toward the blue,
Like the never changing Hudson
Be as Brave and True!
Alma Mater, Kingston High School
We shall never fail, to respect thee,
aid thee, love thee,
KHS, All Hail, All Hail!

To Brian,
The best friend
a man could get.
Best wishes in all endeavors
Greg -

Dedication

Julia H. O'Brien

As a token of our gratitude
For your unselfish interest in us, your students.
For your wonderful sense of humor,
For your vast knowledge,
And for your ability to convey that knowledge to others,
It is with great pleasure that we,
the members of the Class of 1965, dedicate our MAROON to you, Mrs. Julia O'Brien.

On Monday afternoon, September 6, 1915, Kingston High School opened its doors for the first time. Sixty-one people in the first class of graduates received their diplomas in June of 1916.

Now, June, 1965, fifty years after the doors opened, graduates have the same sentiments about leaving Kingston High School as the graduates did in 1915. Their thoughts were expressed in the poem "Alma Mater". Because we cannot express ourselves any more clearly than they have, we feel a repetition of this poem is in order. On this, the fiftieth anniversary of the "Maroon", we should re-dedicate ourselves in this poem.

Alma Mater

In one short year we learned to love thee well,
Dear School, from whom with lingering steps we part;
Our feet may wander; never will our hearts
Fail, at thy name, with loyal pride to swell,
We watched the seasons of our school years speed
Far, far too swiftly, to these last, sweet days,
Whose close must mean the parting of the ways;
New paths into a distant future lead
We know not where, nor to what depth or height,
But we can have no better means to gain
Honor, success, all that we would attain,
Than holding to thy rules of truth and right,
So, for thy standards high that e'er will be
A call and guidance to the heights above,
We bring this book, our loyalty, our love,
And dedicate them all, dear school, to thee!

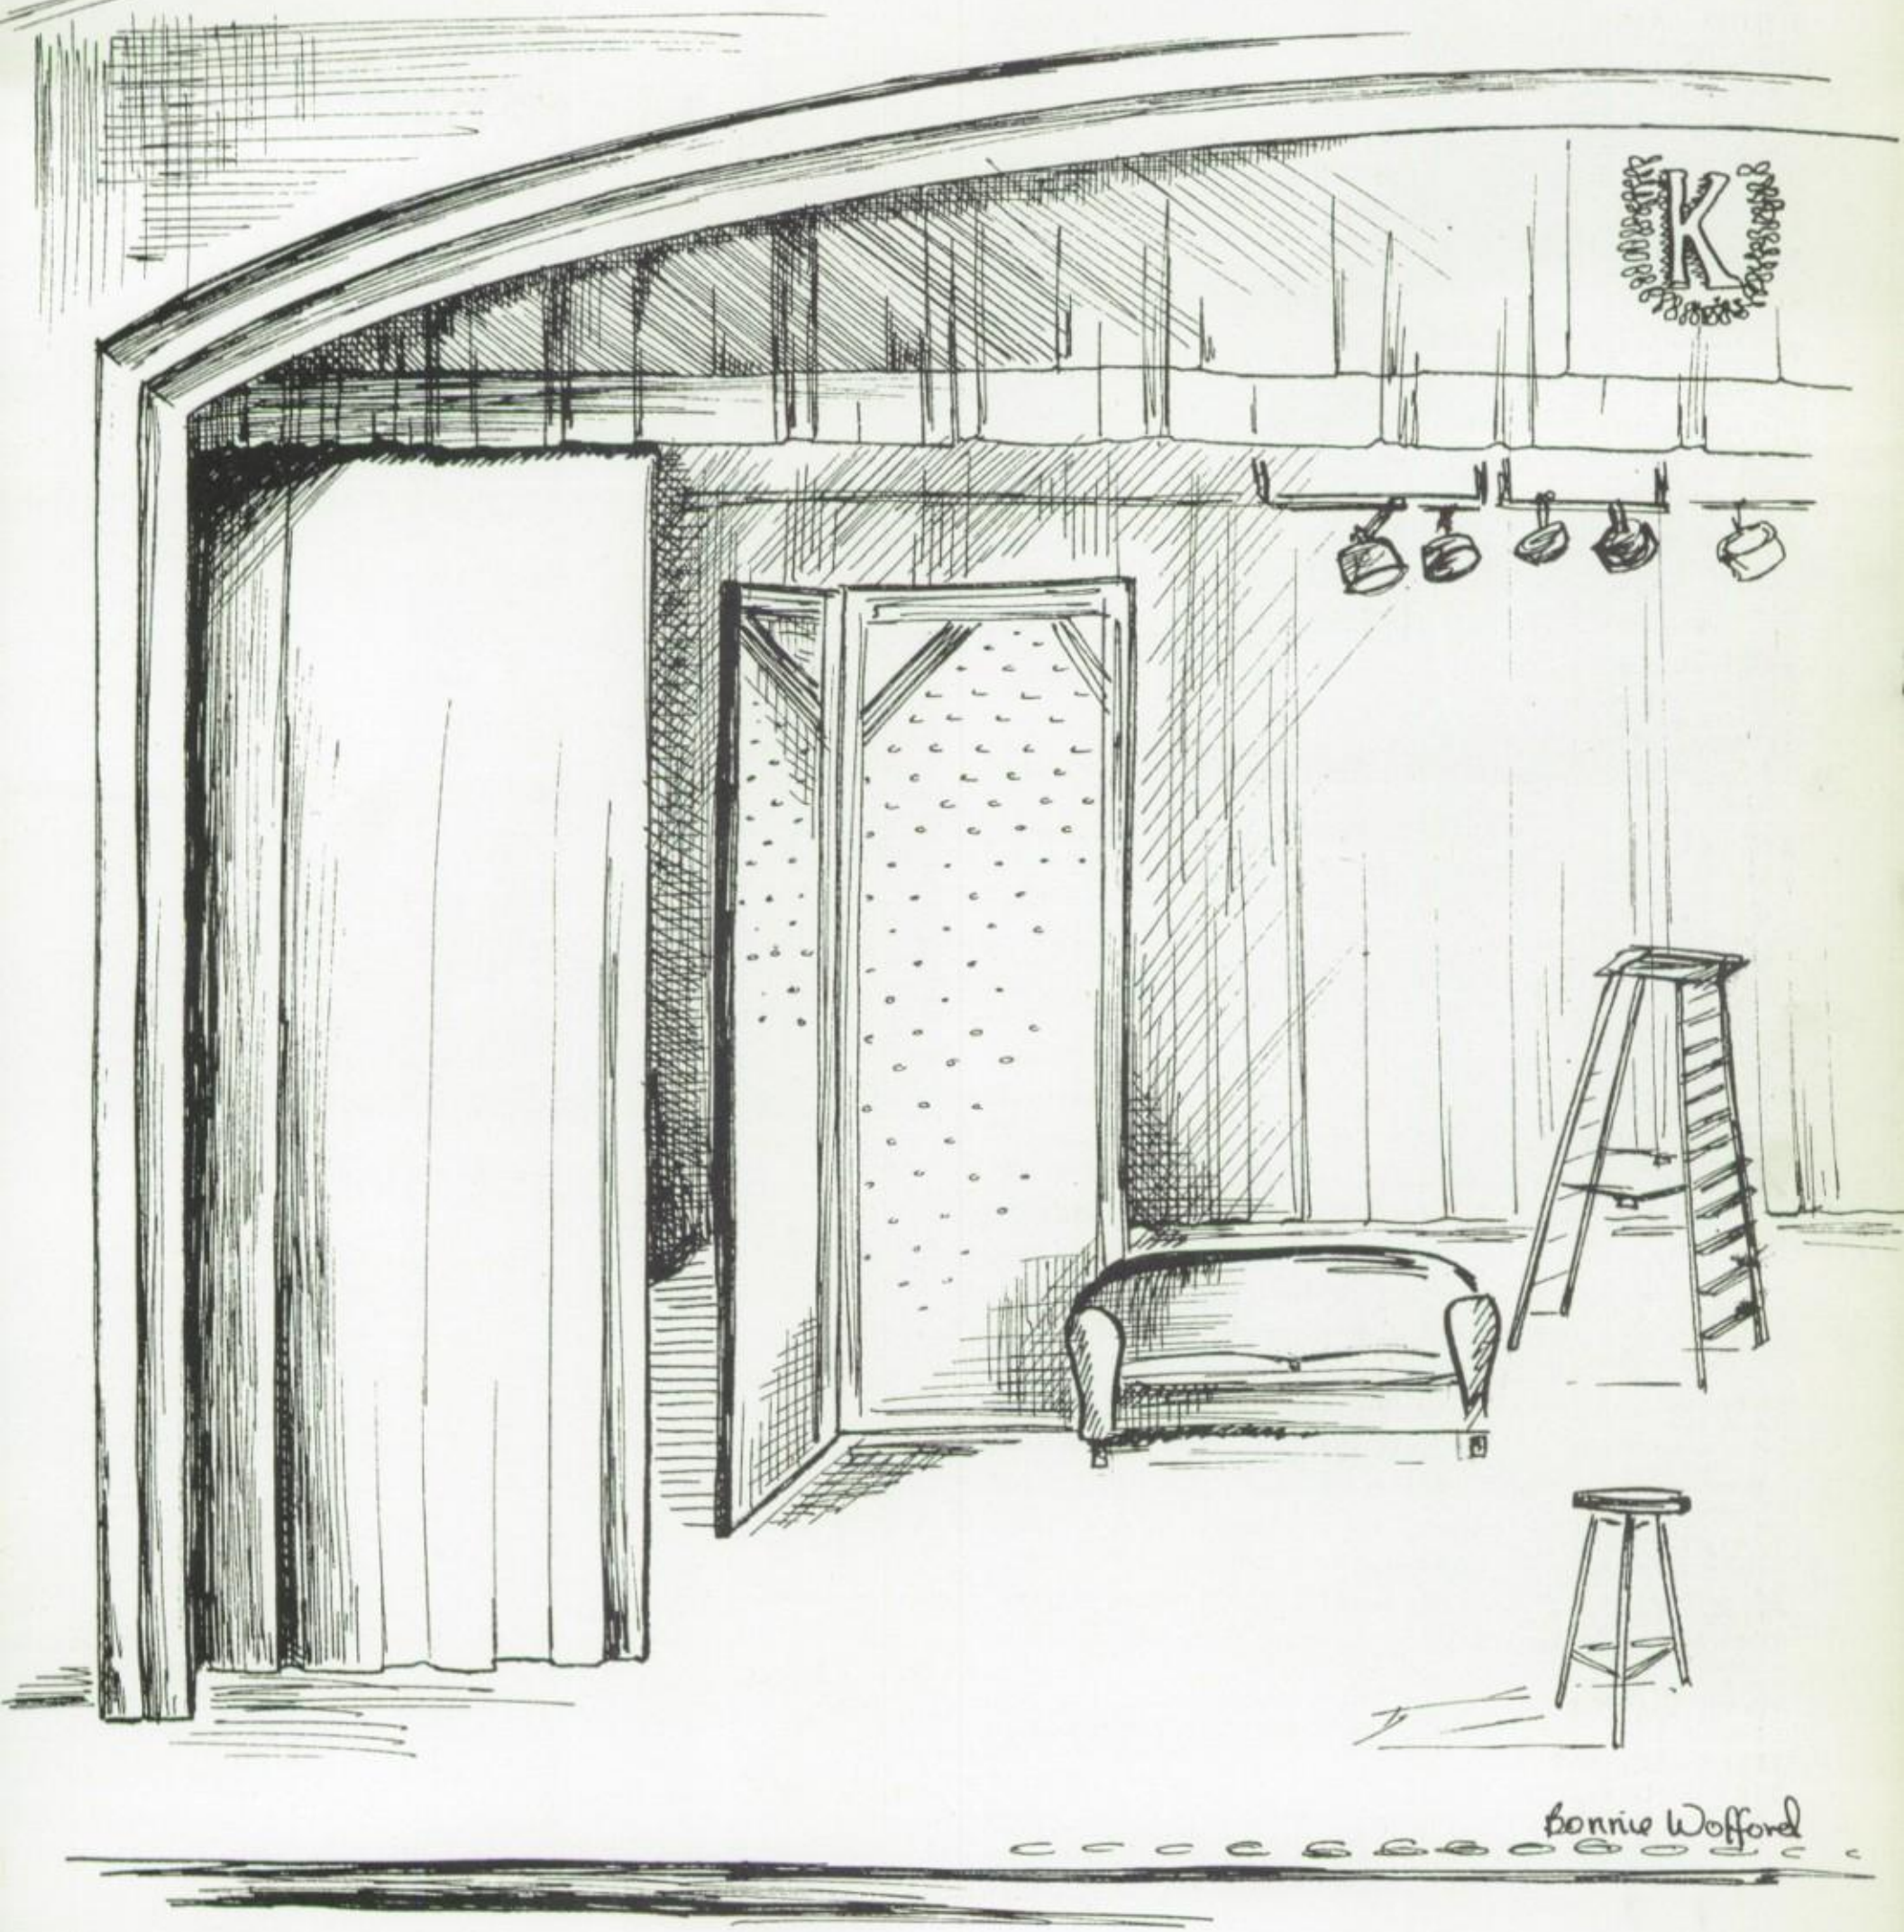
Organizations



Maroon

CHARLES GAFFNEY

The Maroon is a personal account of student activity. It is a reflection of our antics as well as our important and memorable achievements. With its words and pictures it captures for the senior class for a lifetime, the excitement of a final year at K.H.S., a year in which our reluctance to leave our school is so strangely blended with an eager anticipation of college or other future opportunities. And when the years have passed and when, perhaps, many of us will be far removed from the Alma Mater, the Maroon will be there to remind us and to show us how things were and how we were.

We, the Maroon staff, wish especially to thank Mr. Lawrence Mannion, our advisor, for his time, patience, and valuable assistance in organizing the yearbook. We wish also to express our gratitude to Mrs. Odell whose art direction has made this year's Maroon more lively and colorful.

DAME RUMOR, Kingston High's newspaper, has been serving K.H.S. students for some thirty-three years, owing greatly to the valuable assistance of Miss Agnes Scott Smith, the staff advisor.

Ten issues of the paper are published annually. As an extra attraction the D.R. staff puts out an April Fool's Day edition, LAME HUMOR, which features both humorous and satirical articles and stories.

The quality of the D.R. news features is a source of pride for all K.H.S. students. Scholastic, athletic, and social events are reported accurately to the students and faculty through D.R. Students interested in journalism are afforded an opportunity to gain experience in editing and in writing columns and editorials.

The staff triumphed at the Syracuse Scholastic Press Conference this year, winning a first place in news photography, a second place in typography, and also honorable mentions in news writing, column writing and news photography.

Student Council

Student Council is the legislative branch of the Kingston High School Student Association. Each student, upon entering K.H.S., automatically becomes a member of the Student Association and is represented in Student Council by a duly elected delegate from his homeroom. By democratic means and with the cooperation of the faculty, Student Council helps to govern the school.

In the role of a service club, Student Council's annual projects included the sale of student movie cards, The Bundle Drive for the Save The Children Federation, and the donation of Christmas trees to the school. This year Mike Shienvold and Tom Policano teamed to make the Winter Carnival a tremendous success.

This year also included a candy sale, the profits of which went to the Student Council Scholarship Fund. The Little Black Book of K.H.S. was revised during the year under the leadership of Doug Jacobson.

Kingston High threw up their three-game losing defense and put the basketball in a virtual deep freeze for the final five minutes of play to score a 53-46 non-league victory last night at the Arlington High gym in Freedom Plains.

They kept ahead in the third and fourth periods, never by more than eight points and not by less than two. With five minutes to play, the Admirals were still in contention, trailing by Clutch foul shooting was the difference last night at Monticello as the Kingston High varsity cagers opened their season with a pulsating, 67-63, win over the Monties.

While Kingston was making 23 charity tosses in 32 attempts, the home side was able to muster only 15 successful shots in 31 tries, including 4 for 13 in the final period.

This was a tough opener for the young KHS cagers and they rose

Although our crack cross country team lost its first dual meet in four years to Port Jervis this season, the team bounced back to beat Port in the D.U.S.O. and Section Nine meets and to set new league records in the process. Another highlight of the season was a rare shutout against Monticello. In order to do this, it was necessary for the team to place the first seven men in the meet.

Next year's hopes are brightened by the return of outstanding juniors John Tweedy, Ron Wilson, Jeff May, and many others working for depth. George Brocco, who vied for individual honors with John Tweedy all season, graduates this year along with the other top senior placers Jim Hogan, Dick Plaatsman and Frank Hample.

Faced with a tremendous rebuilding job this year, our football team battled through a disheartening season. Having lost their best defensive prospect, Ed Mills, in the first game against Suffern, and then being drubbed by powerful Albany and by mighty New Rochelle, the players began their D.U.S.O. schedule on an unenthusiastic note.

Throughout the season there were sparkling performances by such players as Dan McGrane, Joe Schabot, Brian Bach, Vince Crantz, and Mike Burns. However, no completely balanced team efforts were made in most of the games.

An exception was the upset win over Mont Pleasant. Here was the game which made up for an otherwise mediocre season. Intent upon redeeming themselves after the disaster of the previous year, the Maroons were at an emotional peak. After spotting Mont Pleasant the first six points, the team tallied two touchdowns and played a dazzling defensive game to bring the final score to 13-6. A vital part of the team was the underclassmen who proved themselves to be the prospects for a better season next year. Lou Perry, Bill Knox, Gerard Boggs, and Jack Schatzel are just a few of the players who are expected to be the strength of next year's squad.

Desire was the keynote of this year's basketball squad. Faced with the pre-season loss of stalwarts Leon Hanna (by an eye injury) and Larry Armstead (by transfer to Monticello High), Coach Gilligan did a remarkable job of molding the remainder of the squad into a strong second-place finisher in the DUSO league.

After impressively winning their first three games, numbering tough Poughkeepsie among their victims, the team stumbled twice in the lost role of the First Annual Christmas Tournament. After this, the team, bolstered by the return of Hanna, finished strongly, defeating Monticello among others and giving two tremendous efforts which fell just short of beating the eventual league champion Newburgh. The team compiled a 9-3 league record and a 12-6 over-all mark.

Graduating from this year's squad are Captain Mike Burns, Joe Schabot, and John Eccleston. Returning next season will be Dan Heppner, Gary Van Etten, Leon Hanna, John Spinneweber, Rich Van Dyke, Ron Lindsay, Jim Fitzgerald, Brian Bach, and Clint Morello.

And believe it or not, they didn't even rehearse this one.

This year's squad had a new coach, Mr. Shreckengost, and largely new, inexperienced personnel. Although the dual meet record was not good, a few players showed improvement with each meet. These boys will be expected to form the nucleus of a good squad next year. Wrestlers who made a showing this year were Joe McInierney and Art Jackson who placed second and third respectively in the D.U.S.O. Tournament, and also Gary Charlton, Fred Ector, Jim Williams, and Phil Stymfal.

Tennis

Tennis has long been known as the royal game. Perhaps it is because of our school's flagrant lack of royalty that tennis fortunes at Kingston High have been so low in recent years. Although it is likely that the 1965 K.H.S. tennis team will still be a little short of kings or even counts, it has been blessed with the next best thing; that is, talent. This talent will be coupled with its great catalyst, experience, in the rackets of four returning letter winners: Tom Krom, Bill Haltermann, Bill Boyd, and Frank Kruszenski. Should one of the top four falter, Bruce Sumber and Dave Roberts will both be ready to fill a team berth capably. One returnee who definitely will not slip is Tom Krom, the captain and team ace, who is far and away the class of a fine team. Now a senior, Tom is already a three time letter winner and was a member of the Section Nine doubles championship team when only a sophomore. The only two players in the league who had his number last year have graduated, and he will probably be able to sail undefeated through league play. The other team members also did a fine job last year as they compiled a good 8-4 record, and all have improved considerably since last season through large doses of practice. The members of this year's tennis team will, in fact, have everything going for them except one thing—somebody to watch them play.

Baseball

Last year's baseball team was the D.U.S.O. champion. Returning from that squad to seek another league title are seniors Ed Mills, Joe Schabot, Anthony Toney, Bill Egan, John Eccleston, and Ken Heppner. Juniors add their strength mainly in the pitching department with Brian Bach, Gene Rios, John Spinnenweber, Dan Heppner, and Gary VanEtten. Senior veteran Rob Chilson was lost with a pre-season injury. Kingston has always been strong in baseball, and under the guidance of Coach Rienzo another excellent season is expected.

Track

Row 1: C. Newton, J. Hogan, J. Tweedy, J. May, G. Brocco, F. Hample, D. Plaatsman, M. Thayer, J. Esposito (Co-Captain), M. Burns (Co-Captain), B. Safford, J. Stockwell, G. Munson, J. Darwak. Row II: Coach Modica, M. Bush, R. Suppies, R. Tomaszewski, B. Southard, R. Nelson, E. Argulewicz, L. Flowers, P. Bonavita, G. VanValkenburgh, B. Cohen, S. Fratoni, Coach Hurley. Row III: J. Ricks, D. DeBrosky, J. Brown, M. O'Connor, R. Wilson, E. Basch, K. Murphy, B. Holt, G. Charlton, L. Scanlon, G. Churchill, K. Chambers, H. Philip, R. Peller, P. With at least one letter winner in each event returning to the squad this year, the outlook for the track season is bright. Coaches Hurley and Modica plan to work the team to its capacity, and with the potential that is evident the team could easily place much higher than last year's close third in the D.U.S.O. meet. The strongest events will probably be in distance running, for these events are manned by the best members of our championship cross country team: John Tweedy, George Brocco, Jeff May, Ron Wilson and Frank Hample. Other veteran runners in the shorter distances are Dick Plaatsman, Jim Hogan, Greg Munson, John Stockwell and Brian Elmendorf.

The field events, headed by co-captain Mike Burns in the shot and discus, also have Joe Darwak, Charles Newton, John Sullivan, Mickey Bush, Bill Buddenhagen and Jay Hogan. The weakest segment of the team is the sprints. Leon Hanna is the best prospect, with Mac Thayer and Eli Basch backing him up. Also returning from last year's squad are hurdlers Larry Flowers, Sam Fratoni, and co-captain Joe Esposito.

Row III: P. Lewis, J. America, R. Klomps, A. Pedersen, L. Selzo, B. Hilton, R. Neslund.

The newest addition to the K.H.S. sports schedule and the most improved as the season progressed was the swimming team. Coached by Mr. Mahood and led by seniors John Sullivan, Gary Ballou, John America, Al Pedersen, John Quick, Gary Johnson, and Rich Klomps, the team, by the end of the season, finished a strong sixth out of twelve schools in the Section 9 meet. With the enthusiasm and ability of underclassmen Doug Jacobson, Pete Lewis, and Charles Plunket, the spirit that was present with the founding of the team and which pervaded its first year will undoubtedly be present again next year.

"Twenty-five cents a week is enough for a boy your age!"

Under the direction of Mr. Jack Burton, the Senior Class in November, 1965, presented Thornton Wilder's Pulitzer Prize-winning drama, Our Town.

Mr. Wilder's play suggests that people really do not know how to live life to its fullest. They do not appreciate each situation they face daily for the uniqueness which it contains.

Emily and George discuss their differences over ice cream sodas. The choir practices in the background. Emily helps George with his algebra. Each of these scenes is an everyday happening. But the stage manager takes us aside and tells us that these situations are significant, and that taken apart from the fast-moving hum-drum of life, each is unique in its own way.

The entire story of Emily, Editor Webb's daughter, and George, Doctor Gibbs' son, takes place in the small town of Grover's Corners, New Hampshire. George and Emily grow up together—George as the best baseball player Grover's Corners has ever seen, and Emily as the smartest pupil. They marry and live together a few short years. Then Emily dies in childbirth and is taken to Grover's Corners' cemetery. However, Mr. Wilder has one more trick to use in his play. He brings Emily back to life in a touching but ruthless scene in which he wrings the last bit of pity from us as Emily realizes with despair that she has not lived her life to its fullest.

Kingston High's annual Winter Carnival was held in the Kate Walton Field House, Saturday, March 13th, with twenty-eight booths representing twenty-three school clubs participating. MAY DAY

Old Man Winter came in early that year and its sojourn was a seemingly endless age of bitter storms followed by bleak and damp days and then more outbursts of nature's snowy passion. However grudgingly he moved, the grizzled producer of inactivity and desolation was destined to leave. His departure left a vacuum filled by Spring, coming in slowly at first and finally sweeping away the last vestiges of its predecessor in an onrushing tide. Gentleness replaced bitterness as the mood of Mother Nature, as gentle rains replaced bitter blizzards and gentle breezes replaced bitter gales. The rain and the life-giving sun's rays brought on the rebirth of life in the plant and animal kingdoms, and Spring was as pleasant as Winter had been miserable. The ancient Druids of England, who were dependent upon Nature for their existence, found this particular Spring of special beauty and, to release their long-latent emotions, honored it with a joyful celebration. The ancestor of our modern May Day was born.

The origin of the customs which have clustered around this day is a little clouded. Although the Druids developed their own May Day, other cultures, notably those of India, Greece, and Rome, also celebrated the arrival of Spring with gay festivals. The people of the English villages in the Middle Ages assimilated customs from many sources and added their own to these. We would have recognized one of their festivals because it was very much like a modern May Day. They celebrated with a Paypole, which they wove with brightly colored ribbons in the traditional dance, and they crowned the fairest maiden of the town with a wreath as Queen of the May. The American May Day has also been graced with customs from other European countries.

Because the Puritans frowned on May Day, it has never been celebrated with the same enthusiasm in the United States as in England. The majority of the present festivals in America are held for the young in parks and schools. Typical of these is the Kingston High School May Queen tradition which, having been instituted in 1916, is as old as the school itself. Carrying out the tradition this year were a group of eight girls who did credit to their lovely predecessors. Although Queen Mary, Maid of Honor Felice and the girls of the court—Connie, Gail, Cathy, Ginny, and the two Mary's especially cherished the 1965 May Day, it was also an important occasion for their fellow Seniors. May Day is best appreciated by those who are struck by the realization that this will be the last one they will spend with their friends in K.H.S. For the Druids and for English villagers of the Middle Ages, May Day was a joyous day on which to worship the rebirth of nature. For members of the graduating class, May Day is also a day of joy; we have a great deal of fun in companionship with classmates and friends. Unlike the ancient May Days, our holiday is also tainted with a certain amount of sadness. This concept of a mixture of sadness and happiness may seem strange to the underclassmen, but those who have experienced their last May Day recognize the somewhat empty feeling the final day produces. This sadness caused by the conclusion of our childhood fun will soon be washed away by the much greater joys of our lives ahead.

Our final May Day is part of the series of events which mark a major plateau in our lives, while May Days of antiquity were only plateaus in single years of the lives of their celebrants. For this reason alone the hallowed tradition should be above the thoughtless complaints of its detractors and one worthy of being guarded by future K.H.S. students as zealously as it has been preserved by past generations.

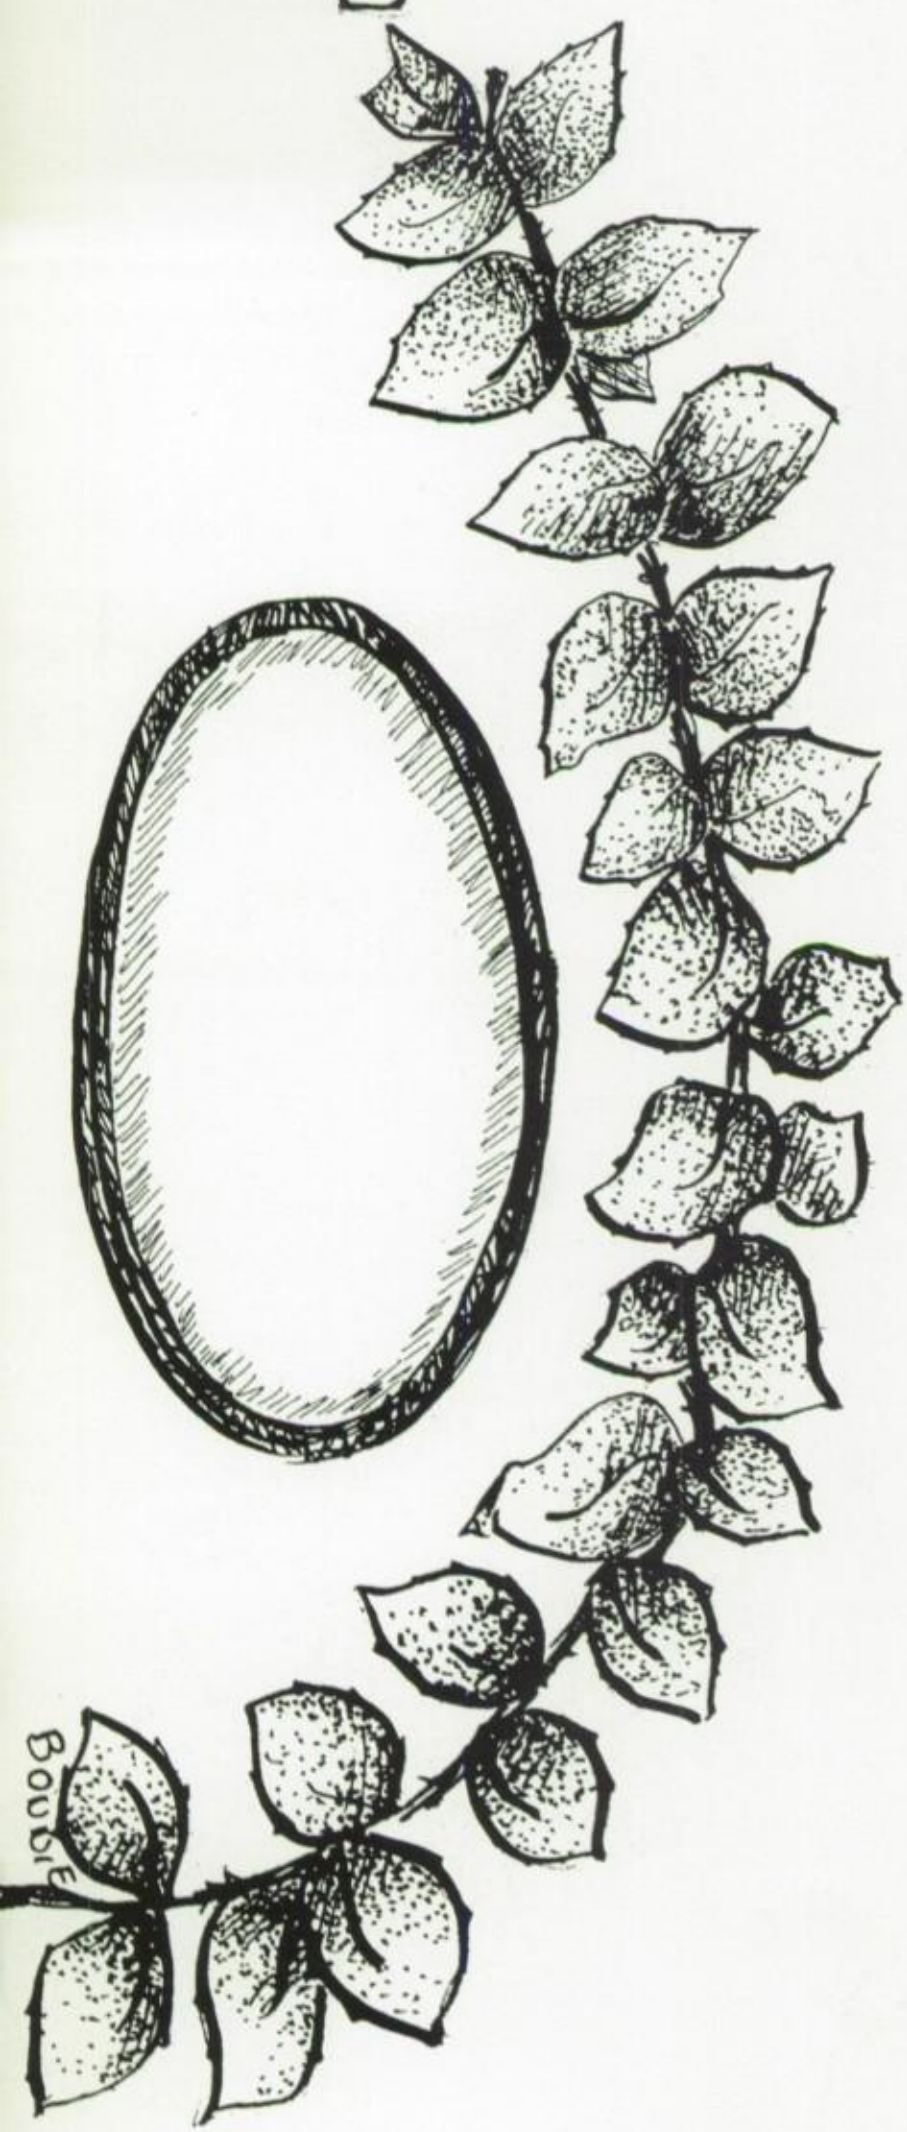
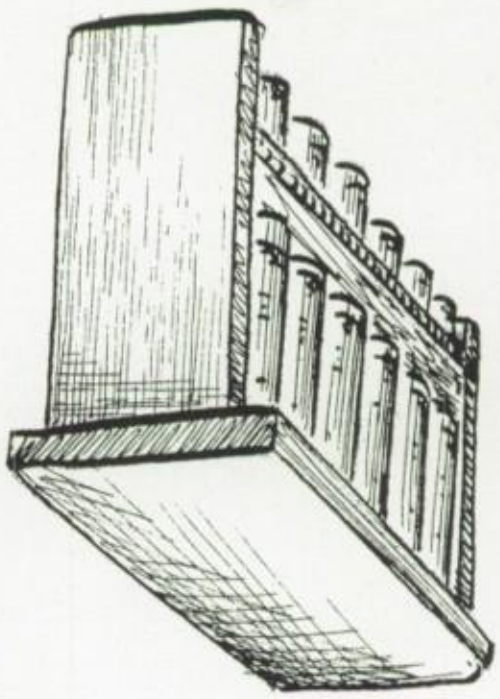
EPIL

OGUE





In this, the Fiftieth Edition of the Kingston High School Maroon, we, the members of the Class of 1965, have recognized the school spirit expressed by our teachers and our fellow-students throughout the past four years. School spirit may be evinced in a number of ways. For example, participating in extra-curricular activities, attending school athletic events, and playing varsity sports are all indicative of school spirit.

But the ideal manifestation of school spirit is an eagerness to learn. We come to school to receive an education, to broaden ourselves that we may be better prepared for the challenge of the future.

Unquestionably, the key to success in high school, in college, or in any area of education is intellectual curiosity. No one can make us learn; we have to want to learn. Learning is often a difficult process, indeed. But if we have the motivation to learn, we have half of the battle won already.

The pursuit of a career should not be the only motivating force underlying education, and materialism should not be its only goal. There is such a thing as a life of the mind, a life of the spirit, which thrives on intellectual curiosity and whose growth is measured in terms of intellectual achievement. Through intellectual development we gain a deeper insight into life itself, and the true purpose of our education is thus realized.

HIGH HONOR SENIORS

"What a dull existence those poor kids must lead," think the overwhelming majority of their fellow students. The individuals referred to are the studyers, such as those who achieve the position of high honor senior. Most of those seniors with 90 averages or better have devoted quite a lot of time to study. Rather than daydream away their classes, they listen conscientiously and absorb as much as possible on the spot. What they don't learn in class, they spend, depending on the student, from two to six hours outside of class trying to assimilate and analyze. This involves making the most effective use of the time available. For most of them study halls are used for the purpose originally intended, and T.V. on weekdays is a rare pleasure. Although the high honor seniors are, as a group, among the most active students in school and community services, the time spent fulfilling extracurricular obligations is not subtracted from study; it is worked around study time. It is natural that when a less diligent student sees a classmate "homework bound," he will consider his own idle pursuit far superior. This intellectually lazy student, however, is actually cheating himself. Certainly studying is not easy—the high honor seniors know this better than anyone else. What studying can be termed is a means (sometimes satisfying, usually pure drudgery) to the successful life. The one quality which separates those such as the high honor seniors from the bulk of their classmates is the ability to see the value of applying themselves at an age when application is most difficult.

The Lively Arts Club is a symbol of freedom, freedom for artistic expression, to the students of Kingston High School. Perhaps the only club whose membership is open to the entire school, Lively Arts acts as a springboard for the ideas of an energetic student body. Art appreciation is the motive and true creativity is the goal of the Lively Arts Club.

The club, as the cultural heart of our school, has broadened its horizons in hopes that not only its members but also each individual in the student body will gain knowledge, interest, and appreciation of the existing art forms of today.

Reason and Rhyme, the literary magazine of Kingston High School, offers students an opportunity to display creative writing skills.

Central to any academic institution is its complete dependence upon intellectual freedom, that freedom to explore the new and re-examine the old. The purpose of the artist is then, not to answer questions; it is, rather to ask them.

This is the major purpose of Reason and Rhyme; it is an attempt to give form and meaning to those questions and problems which lie at the root of all existence. This can be accomplished only through complete intellectual honesty.

The following were written by two Kingston High School seniors.

Dear Diary,

I guess that is what I should call this, although it is merely a by-product of our little revolution over here. You see, many secret societies have cropped up, as much for protection as for anything else. This diary, or journal, as I now prefer to call it, will be my own personal account of an initiation into a particular fraternity of peasants. I was a journalist before the fall of the Bastille, but my shop was confiscated by the Revolutionists and is now turning out much of their literature—I was fortunate enough to escape with my life. My present lack of income forces me to be "disguised" as a peasant, and my fear of being recognized and tried for opposing the Revolutionists' cause has led me to my decision to join this clandestine club, both to enhance my status as a "loyal" peasant, and to preserve my precious life.

My life is precious right now, you know. I have taken it upon myself to record this period in the history of France as accurately as possible. I am also greatly in love with a young Parisian Madame who herself has fallen a class or two. We have had a hard time trying to enjoy life since the start of the turmoil. We have made plans, though, which now must wait until later.

Now, about this fraternity. First off, they call themselves the "Holy Brothers." I do not know where precisely they meet, but I believe it is in a deserted home in the suburbs near the Rue de Montmarte. We (meaning the candidates for initiation) are met in obscure cafes within the city, but I think they take us out of town and walk us through some fields and swamps before hoisting us onto horses and leading us back into the outskirts.

I must compliment myself for having the foresight to print up false papers during the time leading up to the start of all this. The examining committee has asked for my personal documents, and my skill as a printer has fooled even the highest officials. I did not lose my confidence even when they singled me out and questioned me aside from the others. They had a great quarrel over my eligibility, but I came through with flying colors. We took an oath of allegiance tonight, and tomorrow night we receive our initiation instructions. The only information we were given tonight was that the highest virtue of this brotherhood is courage, and that the initiation will test us in that area.

I have no fears, but I am sure this will be no easy ordeal. Each candidate is to be taken to an entrance to a secret passageway beneath the streets of Paris—the sewers. We are to be given nine nails apiece —one for each month of the year of Revolution. We are also to receive nine matches, which will be of little use in those damp and depressingly dark sewers, and a mallet. We will enter the tunnel and proceed through the labyrinth until we find a coffin—yes, an ordinary burial casket—with the words "Liberte, Egalite, Fraternite" scrawled on it. We are then to drive the nine nails into the coffin and return to the starting point.

You may wonder why there were coffins in our sewers. In the disorder of the Revolution there was no time to prepare the bodies of slain aristocrats for burial, nor was there time for ceremony. Several peasant sympathizers of the privileged orders hid the bodies in makeshift coffins and secured them in the sewers until after the Revolution when there would be time for the proper ceremonies.

If you should not understand why such a mission should strike a little terror into even the boldest of youthful hearts, you must realize that refugees, conspirators, and members of other fraternities prowled in the silent seclusion of the sewers.

In concluding my fiance's "journal" it saddens me to tell you that his noble twenty-nine-year-old spirit failed the test which would have meant his life or death. I myself was a member of his "fraternity." A report was made at our next meeting, and I was told of his fate.

Every move made by my beloved Jacques was relayed back to those at the mouth of the tunnel by the echoes of the sounds. They heard him curse a few times, which probably meant that he dropped his matches. After a short while they heard the sound of his hammering. An instant after the hammering stopped they heard a scream and a not-so-dull thud. They rushed into the cave as his screams still echoed under the city of Paris. They had torches, of course, and ascertained in an instant the cause of death—severe mental shock and anxiety. He half-lay, half-stood, as he dangled from the ninth nail—the one he had hammered through his cape.

SECURITY

by Barby Maynard

The world searches endlessly for security—
An intangible goal for the living,
The only real possession of the dead.

The earth whirls eternally in cold, cold space,
Always searching for her final, safe place,
Always whirling faster and farther,
Never quite capturing what she seeks.

And each of us searches endlessly, too,
From birth to death, life is but a hunting ground for all the poor, lost generations of men
Who try to philosophize and say:
    "We search for this . . ."
But, never quite admitting that all they seek is
    security—
    The cruel, long-sought fuel for the fires of the universe which burn low at each person's death:
            The ultimate answer to life
            The only time we are secure—
                And then, forever.

Drama should fulfill three obligations if it is to exist in an educational setting.

The foremost obligation is to those students who work most actively to produce a play. Their training should be sound and of significant value in all future dramatic endeavors. The second obligation is to the entire student body. In classes they are taught what one looks for when seeing good drama, and any play produced in an educational institution ought to serve as a practical example of these principles, thus supplementing the regular program. The final, and most important obligation is to the audience as a whole. Parents, friends, and neighbors can be persuaded to visit the school to see some particular student perform. Often they do so with an attitude of sacrifice and martyrdom. It is the obligation of all who work on a production to make it so excitingly meaningful as to dissolve this attitude of indifference and allow one of eager participation and enthusiastic response to grow in its place.

The Advanced Placement Program was started in September, 1958, under the guidance of Mr. M. Clifford Miller, then principal of the high school. Underlying the program was an awareness of the necessity for judgments and insights that went to the heart of human complexities. The program sought to enrich the experiences of capable youngsters and provide for them frames of reference which would transcend the limitations of popular culture.

In the English program the emphasis is placed upon the examination and evaluation of literature in much greater depth. Authors such as Eliot, Hardy, and Ibsen provide a look at the major intellectual trends of our times and seek to understand their causes. In social studies greater emphasis is placed on ideas which have changed and determined the course of human events. History becomes, then, an examination of the past in order to anticipate the future. In the sciences, a much greater emphasis is placed on the scientific method and its relationship to the institutions and mentality of the present day. In a word, the juncture between science and philosophy becomes more meaningful.

If one could point to a single major goal of the Advanced Placement Program, it would have to be that which provides a degree of detachment for those who one day will seek to determine the future.

We members of the Class of 1965 now mark the passing of an important period in our lives. For each of us, these four years are filled with exciting and happy memories. Our first prom, the Senior Play, the final thrilling moments of a spirited basketball game, and May Day are just a few of the many unforgettable events which we shall always associate with Kingston High School. Each of these events is of singular importance to all of us. But unless with these experiences we have also developed intellectually and gained deeper insights into life, the value of these experiences is greatly diminished. For it is through increased knowledge and understanding of the world about us that our lives become more meaningful and the true purpose of our education is realized.
